day matince, Parted, and Saturday evening, Was She Right? Between eleven and twelve o'clock Sunday night Patrick Connell, a member of the Adams street fire company, was cut and dan-gerously wounded by a man named John B. Jones, at the corner of Main and Adams streets. This, it seems is another case of attempted assassination, and has produced no little comment, occurring, as it did, immediately upon the commission of the murders The facts attending the ATTEMPTED MURDER of Patrick Connell place Jones in the most unfavorable attitude, and very rightly secures for him the unqualified condemnation of all who are conversant with his bad deeds and assassin-like attempts. Sunday night Jones entered Emmerich's saloon, No. 43 Adams entered Enumerich's saloon, No. 43 Adams street, and insisted upon treating all the men in the room. As Jones had no money he was refused credit by Emmerich, and this caused the men present to laugh no little. Jones becoming incensed, said to Pat Connell, who was scated upon a table, "I am a white man;" to which the fireman humorously replied, "That's so; we are all white men." Jones 'That's so; we are all white men. began to use improper language, and to such an extent that Emmerich asked him not to sult his customers, but to leave the house. Pat Connell soon left the saloon in order to avoid Jones, and upon gaining the pavement proceeded to the corner of Main and Adams street with Tim Ryan, who is also a fireman. Just as Connell had asked Tim Ryan to go home with him, Jones approached, and.

WITH A DRAWN KNIFE, rushed upon his unsuspecting victim, stab-bing him in the neck and severing the artery. wares of the presence of the would-be assasthat penetrated his neck and cheek, produc-ing an ugly wound, from which the blood eaped in a large current. Connell was carried to the Adams street stationhouse where physicians were summoned and gave proper treatment. He was then carried to his sister's residence on Overton street, and at a late nour yesterday was resting, with some nopes of surviving his injuries. Shortly after the ARREST OF JONES stationhouse and manifested a great deal of indignation because of the foul attempt made to murder Connell. Owing to the size of the crowd, and the indignation, the police anti-orities did not deem it safe to retain the prisoner in the above named place. One of the captains of the police took Jones through the rear door of the prison yard, and placing him in a back that was in waiting, drove rapidly to the county jail.

Jones was then put in the jail and remains there to await an examination, as was not safe for him to be at the Adams street stationhouse, because of the indignation referred to. Dr. John B. Jones, who is a son of Mr. S. M. Jones, pro-prietor of the Worsham house, is said to be a dissolute man, who has lately been engaged in more than one disreputable affair. A few nights ago he drew a pistol and attempted to shoot a bar tender at Jacob Storz's saloon on Main street, between Poplar and Adams, for which charge he was arrested and on bail to appear before the recorder yesterday. Sat-urday night he was arrested for beating his wife. It is also reported that Jones killed a man or two in Mississippi several years ago, and that he has been the source of great trouble to his father, Mr. S. M. Jones, who is one of the most worthy and estimable citizens of Manuhis zens of Memphis.

ANOTHER ATTEMPT AT ASSASSINATION was made about eleven o'clock Sunday night by a negro named Alonzo Fleming, at No. 148 Poplar street. It seems that Memphis is not only cursed with crimes and lawlessness, but also beset with thieves, robbers and murdenses. derers of the most pronounced type. So far, the police and detectives have failed to drive the murderers and thieves from the city, and the community need not be shocked by the announcement of any crime, however hemous In the absence of proper and efficient police protection, the organization of private guards and a system of watchmen would not be amiss. How far and how long the present state of crime may continue we know not. In addition to the attempted murder of Fireman Pat Connell. Sanday night, Alonzo Fieming, colored, tried to assassinate a negro woman named Susan Dale, who lived in the basement of residence No. 148 Poplar street. Fleming stole up to the house and took deliberate aim with a nigtol which he field at liberate aim with a pistol, which he fired at Susan Dale, who, unconscious of any foe, was sitting quietly in her room. Fortunately, the shot missed Susan Dale, who thereby escaped the murderer's bullet. After his attempt to assassinate Susan Dale, the negro Alonzo Fleming found no difficulty in escaping. Fleming has brown skin, is about six feet six inches high, has a scar on the back of his head and smooth face. He wears black pasts, black hat and green checked coat. Here is another opportunity for the police authorities and the detectives to exert undue diligence and apprehend the would-be assassin.

ACCIDENTAL MURDER. Perhaps "accidental murder" is rather paradoxical definition of an act which, at four o'clock vesterday afternoon, resulted in the death of Waiter Nelson, colored, at Central point, in this city. Yesterday afternoon two negro men, Walter Nelson and Preston Jones, were at the former's house, on the Pigeon Roost road, near Walnut street, and proceeded to examine a pistol. While Jones was handling the weapon it accidentally fired, the ball striking Nelson in the collar-bone and producing a fatal wound. A physician was immediately summoned, but Nelson's wound was too serious to admit of relief, and he died last night. After the shooting Preston Jones remained at Walter Nelson's house, but was not arrested, which, we suppose, was because the shooting was altogether accidental. ANOTHER ATTEMPT TO MURDER was made in the vicinity of Central park yesterday afternoon, but the facts in the case are not known. No arrests have been made, and up to this writing the murderous attempt H. TUCKER, Gen. Fig. Agent littods C.-R. R.

A Conundrum.

What is the difference between the municipal court and the Great Western Clothing and the Great Western Clothing and its perpetrator remain a mystery, neither having come to the knowledge, or even the information of the police. All that we can learn is that two unknown negroes had a difficulty which was terminated by one drawing.

A few nights ago, while a gentleman was going along Bull Run street, he came very near falling into a mudhole, and in trying to balance himself accidentally drew his pistol. This was quite fortunate for the belated pedestrian, for, as he raised his hand in which he held the pistol, he discovered a negro just behind him. The negro had pulled off his shoes and was creeping up in order to assas-sinate and rob the gentleman. The sight of the pistol frightened the negro, who fled down street and was soon out of sight. Surely the city is infested with thieves and murderers, who become bolder and more fearless very day.

A MYSTERIOUS SHOT was heard in the vicinity of Gayoso, beyond Wellington street, about nine o'clock last night. The cause of the shooting is not known, but it is rumored that two men had a difficulty which resulted in one shooting at the other. The affair is enveloped in mys tery, as not even the name of the man who fired the shot is known.

Before the war he was convicted of murder in Carroll county, and served in the penitentiary during the administration of Governor Harris. Some time ago Gibson shot a man named Heck Giles, in Henry county, and at the time of his own death was under bond to answer this charge. Since then Heck Giles shot and killed Deputy-United-States-Mar-shal Torbett, in Henry county, and fled the country. It is also said that Albert Gibson and Robert Drury were not on friendly terms, but that the former had more than once atened the life of the latter, and this induced the murder. As to the article signed "Justice," and published in yesterday's Ledger, correcting the reports of the affair as it was stated in that journal, the Aralanche and APPEAL, we have only to say that the account given by us was based upon and substantiated by the evidence given before the coroner's jury. We deem this stalement necessary in view of the publication by "Justice," which purports to give "the facts" relative to the homicide, one which has shocked

The work of evangelism under the conduct of Knowles Shaw still continues at the Linlen street church. On Sunday night the audience exceeded nine hundred persons, one-third of whom stood during the long services, and as many turned away because of lack of comfortable accommodations. The preacher took for his subject "Decision of Character" accressing himself particularly to young men and women. He delineated with unerring ertainty, with the skill of a deft limner, th haracteristics essential to the perfection of manly or womanly virtue, and to their value as influential entities in the social, moral and religious sphere. Mr. Shaw seized hold of Daniel and Esther, of scripture, as models of decision of character, pointing out what in them evoked their useful and influential de-velopement. This lecture was listened to with seeming interest by the congregation, one which one reporter count At the time of the assault Connell was una- yers, two judges, eight doctors of medicine and six ministers of the gospel.
